Period for Reply

A SHORTENED STATUTORY PERIOD FOR REPLY IS SET TO EXPIRE 3 MONTH(S) FROM THE MAILING DATE OF THIS COMMUNICATION.

- Extensions of time may be available under the provisions of 37 CFR 1.136(a). In no event, however, may a reply be timely filed after SIX (6) MONTHS from the mailing date of this communication.
- If the period for reply specified above is less than thirty (30) days, a reply within the statutory minimum of thirty (30) days will be considered timely.
- If NO period for reply is specified above, the maximum statutory period will apply and will expire SIX (6) MONTHS from the mailing date of this communication.
- Failure to reply within the set or extended period for reply will, by statute, cause the application to become ABANDONED (35 U.S.C. § 133). Any reply received by the Office later than three months after the mailing date of this communication, even if timely filed, may reduce any earned patent term adjustment. See 37 CFR 1.704(b).

DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 1-30 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Barber et al.\

Barber teaches a medical payment system. Specifically, the system includes a plurality of remote terminals that are used to enter data regarding charges and payments for medical services. The information forwarded from the remote terminals to the central processing system includes identification of the physician, the patient, the medical services and patient's insurance carrier. The central processing unit verifies the physician, patient and insurance company identifications (column 3; lines 41-53). Examiner notes that this teaching represents Applicant's message processor which received income amount value, income source identifier and patient identifier.

Barber further teaches the central processing system separates patient statement data and generates patient statements. Updates from generating the patient statement are monitored and entered in to appropriate databases. Patient payment or failure to pay is recorded in an accounting file (column 7; lines 23-29). Examiner notes that this teaching represents identifying and updating patient account information, as well as collating and combining data into 2nd income total values representing combined income for patient.

Barber also teaches that funds are credited to a physicians account. These funds are transferred and credited to a physicians account at an appropriate financial institution (column 8; lines 1-11). Examiner notes that this represents identifying and updating an income account associated with a dept, as well as collating and combining data for a 1st income amount total value representing combined cash income for a department. This also represents an electronic funds transfer.

Examiner references Barber column 4; lines 39-43: A physician library file stores physician information for each physician in the practice, who is frequently consulted, or whose services are otherwise billed though the remote terminal. Examiner notes that this teaching supports the idea that each physician represents Applicant's departments internal to a healthcare enterprise (or practice).

Barber teaches that amount paid directly by patient is entered into the remote terminal (column 10; lines 33-34). Examiner notes that this represents a co-payment situation, where a patient pays a cash payment up front. Examiner also notes that the remote terminals of Barber represent cash register functions.

Conclusion

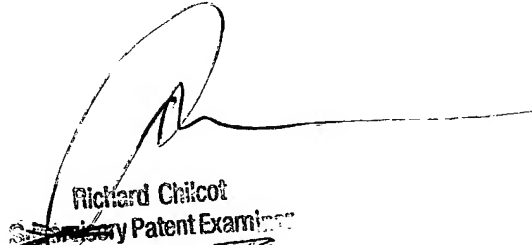

Any inquiry concerning this communication or earlier communications from the examiner should be directed to James A. Kramer whose telephone number is (703) 305-5241. The examiner can normally be reached on Monday - Friday (8AM - 5PM).
